FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SURVIVING COLLEGE: AN UNCIVILIZED FRONTIER

A must read survival kit for college students, staying true to their faith in current college societies

ST. PAUL, MN —September 6, 2010 Fortifying Families of Faith is excited to announce the release of Surviving College: An Uncivilized Frontier- targeted to reach the public by December 1, 2010. This is a must read for students about to enter college, freshman in College, and parents of college students. This book is part three of a trilogy designed for teens and their parents.

This book takes a critical look at how much of the college culture inadequately prepares young people as they try and merge into adulthood. The book asks students to assess just how wholesome they are becoming. Are they ever mindful of their short and long term goals as they maneuver the decoys and pumpkins of college living? Surviving College: An Uncivilized Frontier urges college students to avoid the peer pressured mentality that urges them to live it up since they are only young once.

Surviving College: An Uncivilized Frontier will be sold through the Fortifying Families of Faith website: <http://fortifyingfamiliesoffaith.com>. Date of availability will be December 8, 2010.

Linda Kracht, has authored four other books including Daughters Forever, Sons Forever (a home-based sexuality program for teens and their parents) and Black and White (An Examination of God's Moral Laws).
